

Pathfinders of Nerosyan,

I pray to The Dawnflower that this missive finds you before all hope is lost. Today is the 14th day of Erastus. A party of Pathfinders arrived in Dawnton two days ago. Last night they were placed under arrest for committing two heinous murders. They have already been convicted and are sentenced to hang at dawn twelve days hence. Tensions are high since the fall of Kenabres. I believe their trial was rushed and the verdict is unjust. Although my conscience moves my hand to scribe this note, I fear too much to share my identity. Come fast if you would save your friends!